[Boston] Wishes Webb could take sleigh-ride through suburbs of Boston. Takes comfort in Webb's daguerreotype. About thousand dollars realized from Bazaar. Constant collision "with all the religious sects and political parties." Disunion policy terrifies many. Considerable number of petitions for secession of Mass. from Union presented to Legislature. Surprising change in Public sentiment last six months. War with Mexico producing reaction against slave power. Calhoun, "Napoleon of slavery," anticipating "Waterloo defeat." To relieve famine in Ireland, food, money, clothing will be contributed. Francis Jackson will transmit 250 pounds from anti-slavery friends.

To Richard Davis Webb

[Boston] Webb's letter about mission to famishing Irish to appear in Liberator. Fanatics here differ from Webb, Richard Allen, and H.C. Wright about receiving donations from South for starving Irish, but agree with them in disapproving Dublin Committee's rejection of aid derived from theatrical entertainment, while accepting that given by slaveholders. "Atrocious war with Mexico" is not popular. American arms successful. "Religious sectarists" [sic], who hate Catholicism, share in satisfaction. To wish success to Mexicans exposes G. and circle to charge of treason. Honors memory of O'Connell.

[Boston] The writer says that the discussion at the Hackney meeting has influenced many American Unitarians. Lists the religious papers which published the Tagart letter. Says the current discussion of Abolition has induced Dr. Dewey to write a letter about it. Discusses letters by himself and one Bishop appearing in the Inquirer. Complains of the inertia of the Unitarian leaders. Hopes to meet Mr. Hincks. Joseph Barker has published his book, Slavery As It Is... The writer hopes for contributions to the Fair. Quotes John C. Calhoun on the Slavery question. Hopes that Mr. Armstrong will answer Dr. Dewey. Garrison has gone on a tour of Pa., Ohio, and N.Y. Describes [illegible] work as General Agent. The first number of the Mass. [illegible]ew is to appear on Dec. 1.

«Boston» The writer met Mr. Hincks. Garrison has been ill in Cleveland. "The western fever attacked him..." The Inquirer deteriorated after Mr. Hincks' departure. Douglass is planning to start a paper in Cleveland. The writer sends some of S. J. May's sermons by Conrad Holsinki. More about Dr. Parkman. Condemns Tagart and his reply to Dr. Estlin. Also W. G. Eliot of St. Louis and Rev. Theodore Clapp of New Orleans. Passage beginning "Act and speak..." summarizes Garrisonian philosophy. Says Abolitionists don't denounce people for not joining their societies. Objects to expediency and double-dealing. Thinks that Holsinki would help with the French edition o[illegible]glass' Narrative. An added page written on Oct.1 ment[illegible] planned revision of the Address. Says H. C. Wright has returned after five years absence.

⌊Boston⌋ The writer discusses the shipment of six copies of the Meditations by Crosby & Nichols. The book apparently sells well considering its type and style. Disapproves of the way Rev. To Dr. John Bishop Estlin

«Boston» The writer tells about his daily life. Describes a trip to South Hingham. Is worried about the Bristol box for the Fair. The ship carrying it was delayed. Says other boxes have come from St. Petersburg, Paris, Glasgow, Edinburgh, etc. The reply to the Boston Invitation has arrived. It was criticized adversely by Rev. George E. Ellis, of Charlestown, in the Christian Register. The writer intends to discontinue his subscription to the Inquirer. Discusses cost of French edition of Douglass' Narrative. Thinks Aspland lacks courage. Garrison is recovering slowly. Douglass has issued the first number of his paper. The first no. of the Mass. Review has appeared. Apologizes for advance publication of the Reply. Discusses the criticized passages. Answers questions about the Reply to the Irish Address.

To Dr. John Bishop Estlin No.65

«Boston» The writer says that a box is being sent to the English bazaars. The Bristol boxes for the Boston Fair did not arrive in time. The Boston Fair collected $4300. The writer mentions the current credit stringency. A small group of Unitarians tried to get Congress to stop the war with Mexico. Hincks obtained only small audiences. He was too far advanced for the average person. Another discussion of Tagart and Eliot. Thinks the Sketch of Maryland Life by Mrs. Dall is accurate. Gives the cost of printing W.W.Brown's Narrative. No.45

[Boston] The writer says he will help Miss Carpenter write a memoir of Dr. Joseph Tuckerman. Discusses Dr. Tuckerman's personality. Proposes a new title page for the second part of the Meditations. Says that the last Bristol boxes have come. Tells about the financial difficulties of the Abolition cause. Doubts if Frederick Douglass can keep his newspaper going. Mentions engagement of Miss Carpenter's sister. Refers also to Edmund Quincy's remarks about Elihu Burritt.

«Boston» The writer reports the arrival of both Bristol boxes. A special exhibition and sale is to be held. Comments on Abby Kelley Foster's portrait in Howitt's Journal. Dr. Hutton defended G. E. Ellis. The writer says he would prefer Train's line of packet ships to the steamers. Was somewhat discouraged by a letter from Martineau to James. M. showed a weakened A-S attitude. Discusses the English Gentlewoman and similar works. Advises on best way of sending small sums of money. Describes funeral of John Q. Adams. Retracts some of his statements about W. G. Eliot.. Denies the rumor of a quarrel bet[illegible] Douglass and Garrison. Knows nothing of Andrew Jackson [illegible]s' Revelation. Garrison may like it, having a strong l[illegible]ing toward spiritualism.

To Miss Weston «Caroline Weston»

«Boston» The writer is sending this letter by the addressee's brother, Warren Weston, who is to sail tomorrow. Wendell Phillips, who was very ill and near death, is recovering very slowly, but steadily. Garrison is much invigorated by the water treatment. The writer tells about the Weymouth annual (A.S.) tea-party. The New Bedford Convention was excellent. "Lucy Stone did remarkably well... She is doing directly & indirectly, a very good work." John Bailey is moving to Lynn, as "N. Bedford seeks to starve & freeze his antislavery fidelity out of him." Describes the election excitement. "The Free Soil party have made a vigorous ef[illegible]rt; but they are no match for the Taylorites in lying..." [illegible] Follen told the writer that she will go abroad with her [illegible] next summer. The writer remembers his own pleasure in Paris.

«Poplar St. (Boston)» The writer dwells at length on a letter that Maria W. Chapman is said to have written to Mrs. (Mary) Howitt from Paris, and which was seen by a Miss Griffiths "who wonders that 'this woman' (meaning M«aria») should dare to write about him in such a manner." The substance of the letter was that Mrs. Chapman thought Douglass selfish and regretted his receiving so many personal presents from England. Douglass appeared cast down and offended. The writer thinks it would be absurd to have a fight with Douglass, whom she considers merely weak and touchy. Regrets that Maria W. Chapman is in correspondence with Mrs. Howitt at all. ‹Poplar Street, Boston› Extracts copied from a letter. At Francis Jackson's request, the writer set out to ask Mrs. E. L. (C.) Follen to go with her to Mr. Wilkins "to propitiate him about Faneuil Hall." According to Mr. Jackson, Mr. Wilkins had said that "the fancy goods dealers were opposed to our having it, on the ground that we undersold them ..." The writer has done well in collecting money for the Liberty Bell.

"The Joneses are shrieking for money at the West, but I do not see that the American society can aid them tho we will if we can after the Fair." Suggests that "if there was a spare hundred of (E. S.) Abdy's money" Mrs. M. W. Chapman might give it to them. Describes articles [illegible] in for the Fair.

«Boston?» The writer enumerates her letters of acknowledgment to contributors abroad. Is sending twelve of the best Liberty Bells, some of which the addressee can present to Lady Byron and others. The writer will send Liberty Bells to H.Martineau, (Jane M.) Arnold, and (Eliza) Fletcher. "After the box is off, I hope the taste of the Fair will be out of my mouth." Discusses business affairs connected with the Liberty Bell. As there will not be enough to pay the bills, the writer would be glad to receive "some of «Edward S.» Abdy's legacy when you get it". The writer plans to have the next Liberty Bell edited by Edmund Quincy, who "would dote [illegible] doing it." The writer is to visit Mrs. Follen in Cambrid[illegible]

⸢(Boston)⸣ Explains his stand on the Bible discussion, etc. published in the Liberator, which has caused grief and alarm to E. P. and others. Liberator is not the organ of the Anti-Slavery Society. Presentation of both sides of any question is always allowed in the Liberator. If this does not offend E. P. and H. Vincent in the case of other subjects, why does a discussion of the Bible now cause alarm? It should be examined like any other book. One should not dogmatize about incomprehensible mysteries. W.L.G. is for the extension of peace, liberty and the overturning of tyranny. Thinks that this is the mission of Jesus. Discussion of seemingly extraneous questions has bee[illegible]ught on by the enemies of the Anti-Slavery and Non-Resis[illegible] movements.

«Chauncy Place, (Boston)» The writer says she has not started her journal yet. Tells of packing merchandise for the Millville Anti-slavery fair. Mary G. Chapman "wanted to take me to see the Merry Wives of Windsor which Fanny «Kemble» was to read Sat. morning." S.H. Gay looked "very unhappy and miserable." Found S. May, Jr. correcting a report. Garrison gave the writer a very amusing account of a meeting of the Town & Country Club. A.B. Alcott sold tickets for it and R.W.Emerson spoke. Garrison attacked Thomas Carlyle in a speech, which caused quite a controversy.

Garrison, William Lloyd, 1805-1879 — Ms.A.1.1 Vol.4 No.101

To Helen Eliza (Benson) Garrison

«New York» Arrived with Anti-Slavery friends. Rained during most of the trip. Heard news of G. W. Benson at Springfield. W.L.G. expects trouble at the anniversary meeting in the Tabernacle because of the inflammatory articles in the New York Herald by James G. Bennett. Continuing the letter after the meeting, W.L.G. reports a triumphant, though tumultuous, gathering. A mob was led by Capt. Rynders, but W.L.G. finished his speech on religion and country, and was followed by W. H. Furness, F. Douglass and Samuel Ward.

Vol.25
To "My dear Friend" «George Thompson?» No.37

«Boston» The writer discussed the addressee with Garrison. "I saw plainly enough that Garrison was hurt and wounded by the course you had taken with regard to the Chronotype." Apparently Thompson had written out one of his speeches for the Chronotype, a newspaper edited by Elizur Wright, who was hostile to the Garrisonians. The writer and her friends felt much slighted. She criticises E. Wright and the Chronotype severely.

To Elizabeth Pease

«Boston» Describes G. Thompson's second visit to America. Notes change of public sentiment since his former visit. A great farewell soirée was given for him in Boston. Urges E. P. to visit New England. Would like to see the World's Bazaar (Great Exhibition) in England this summer. Believes it hasten universal reconciliation. G. Thompson was elected a delegate to the Peace Congress in London. Hopes that Mrs. E. L. (C.) Follen, Mrs. M. (W.) Chapman and C. Weston have seen E. P. H. C. Wright spent a year in Indiana and Ohio. "He sometimes errs in taste and judgment," but is one of the best men living. The £26 donated by E. P. will go to the American Anti-Slavery Society.

«Boston» The writer tells of a fugitive slave girl named Smith, whom a slave catcher found on Belknap Street. A white gentleman gave her money to help her escape. Theodore Parker married Miss Smith and this white gentleman at the house of Mr. (Francis) Jackson. The writer tells about Mrs. (John Gorham?) Palfrey's regret at her husband's course, fearing that it would injure his family. "My Lyman, I hear, is quite put down by the fashionables."

«Boston» At the request of Wendell Phillips, the writer reports on his efforts to engage a place for the Fair. Has tried hard to get the Melodeon which, however, would involve great expenses. Boylston Hall, the one opposite it "under the Liberty tree," and Amory Hall have been refused. The writer has applied for the hall over the Worcester R.R., which Garrison considered the best. Mentions the sizes of other halls. Suggests that the addressee meet the writer and Mr.Phillips and look at the places.

No.34

«Boston» The writer has made inquiries about a certain Robinson, and concludes that he is a rogue. The letter is mainly concerned with Thomas De Quincey, about whom the writer seeks information. Refers to the addressee's acquaintance with the Lake poets. Supposes him to be the son of the Rev. J.B. Estlin, who was a teacher of Southey and "the fear of paining whom Coleridge said was the chief obstacle he found in the way of his turning Churchman." Remembers having heard that the "De" of De Quincey's name was added by himself. The name of Quincy is very uncommon in the United States and in England; it is not in the L[illegible]on directory. The Annual New England Convention is now [illegible] held. Joseph Barker is here.

«Boston» Believes it better to send a letter to be read at the "Rescue" anniversary than to be present, because of the cost of the journey. Exults in the success of the Woman's Rights Convention in Syracuse. The press has been respectful. Notes the change since 1840. The Grimké sisters are staying at S. Philbrick's house in Brookline. Angelina is ill with a fever. The seceding portion of the Liberty Party, headed by W. Goodell, will re-assemble at Syracuse. Calls nomination of Goodell for the presidency of the U.S. a farce. G. [Boston] The writer has had to prepare a report for the annual meeting of the Mass. Anti-Slavery Society. Mentions receiving a letter from Parker Pillsbury. Discusses a shipment of pamphlets; the next issue of the Anti-Slavery Advocate; the failure of Frederick William Chesson's periodical, The Watchman; and some other minor transactions. Discusses Stephen A. Douglas' Nebraska Bill at length. Says Garrison is in poor health. He is supervising a course of lectures in New York. Wendell Phillips is lecturing on Slavery and Joseph Barker on the Bible. Discusses Parker Pillsbury at length. The Liberty Bell has been discontinued. Speaks resentfully of Frederick D[illegible]ass.

«Boston» The writer suggests sending the box of Anti-Slavery reports to William T. Powell of Liverpool. Leaves the decision to Mr. Webb. Discusses Mr. Powell's failure to set a low value on the boxes of contributions which resulted in very high import duties. Hears news of the approaching war (probably the Crimean War). Admires the latest number of the Anti-Slavery Advocate. Mentions the suspension of the Watchman. Criticizes the latest British & Foreign A-S Reporter for inaccuracy and omissions. Mentions resentment against Stephen A. Douglass' Nebraska Bill. "In this Union, Slavery is bound to rule and conquer."

To Richard Davis Webb

⌜Boston⌝ The writer was surprized to hear that Parker Pillsbury had said that the National Anti-Slavery Standard was "but little read here(i.e. in the U.S.)". Garrison and Wendell Phillips disagreed with Pillsbury. The writer thinks that he made a mistake. Says the Standard has a small intelligent audience. It differs from the Liberator. Oliver Johnson organized the New York A-S Society and arranged for a very successful course of 13 lectures on Slavery. The Standard is an "authoritative, able and regular exponent of the faith and works of the American Abolitionists,..." It is not dependent on English patronage. The writer is worried about Pillsbury's illness [illegible]

⌈Boston⌉ This letter is a continuation of the writer's letter of Mar.30,1854 to Richard Davis Webb. The writer says Edmund Quincy estimates ten readers for every copy of the National Anti-Slavery Standard. Quincy also remarked on the influence of the Standard on the newspapers of the country, with many of whom it exchanges issues. The writer decides against giving William P. Powell of Liverpool the work of distributing the pamphlets in the annual box of reports. Says that Stephen and Abby K. Foster agree with him about the Standard. Discusses the Nebraska Bill.

«Boston» The writer regrets that he will not see Miss Shackleton owing to his departure for the country. Gives a detailed account of certain financial transactions. Asks how the A-S Fair money could be better spent. It could be given to the New York Evening Post, but the Post backed Franklin Pierce, a pro-Slavery candidate. Objects to the New York Tribune because it backed Zachary Taylor and Winfield Scott. Lists as possible donees the Liberty party, the Free Democratic party, and lecturers. Names objections to all of them. Says the Liberator is not exclusively an Anti-Slavery paper.

.Essex St., (Boston). The writer mentions a great fire at Wolf's Crag. Learned about the arrest of Anthony Burns from Mrs. Wendell Phillips. Tells about the plans for a rescue. Mentions an eclipse of the sun. "Phebe Garnault was smoking glass & watching the sun ... Wentworth Higginson and a number of men had come from Worcester." Mentions the meetings of the Vigilance Committee. George Russell presided at the Faneuil Hall meeting. "Bird of Walpole, Swift, a young Free Soiler, Wendell & Parker spoke ..." Higginson led an attack on the Courthouse. Praises W. Phillips. The writer "talked about non-resistance" to Mary Robbins, Mrs. Phillips and others. Warren Weston arrived. Wri[illegible]escribes the state of his health. Sent messages to t[illegible]urches asking for prayers for

Anthony Burns. Names the ministers who complied with the writer's request. Jonas Perkins was among them. "Young Stiles held a tipping seance, but the oracles were rather misty." The writer went to town with W. Weston. It was rumored that the Boston merchants would buy Burns. Newport, R.I. and Portsmouth sent troops. Went to town on the 30th of May and found much excitement. "Everybody standing at their shop doors up & down Washington St., groups of people walking on the side walk ..." "... all hell seemed broke loose." A friend "scolded non-resistance & said she had fallen back on her brute instincts." The truckmen threatened to mob Mr. & Mrs. Phillips. Theodore Parker tried to ge[illegible]. Phillips's house. The writer tells about the witnesses at the trial. "Then came the hope that Loring would declare him «Burns» free accompanied by the fear & belief that Hallett would arrest him again and take him before his son, who is a commissioner, & hurry him off at once." Writer tells how news of courthouse activities was circulated. A Free Soil and a New England convention were in progress at the time. Disapproved of the N. E. convention wasting its time discussing Non-Resistance. The writer and Deborah went to hear John P. Hale speak at the Free Soil convention. Thinks Mrs. H. To Richard Davis Webb

‹Boston› The writer discusses some financial transactions. Says he cannot increase the subscription list of the Anti-Slavery Advocate in America, because the burden of supporting the other A-S papers is as much as Abolitionists can bear. Comments on the new form of the Standard. Further discussion of financial details. Wants Parker Pillsbury to organize the Glasgow and Edinburgh Abolitionists. Mentions celebrations on Aug.1 at Abington Grove in Plymouth County, Hopedale in Worcester County, and Flushing, N.Y. The writer ends by discussing the international situation.
